

Boat tracking system Layered Architecture

I chose the Layered Architecture because it clearly organizes the boat tracking system into separate levels, making it easier to manage and update.

Each layer has a specific role the User interface layer handles user interaction, the Tracking & management layer manages system logic, and the data storage layer stores information.

User Interface Layer

Tracking & Management Layer

Data Storage Layer

